ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This report is a product of the NM Youth Risk and Resiliency Survey (YRRS), a survey that characterizes the risk behaviors and resiliency/protective factors among New Mexico youth. The YRRS is a joint project of the New Mexico Department of Health (NMDOH) and the New Mexico Public Education Department (PED), with support and technical assistance from the University of New Mexico Prevention Research Center (UNM PRC), AASTEC, and the Division of Adolescent and School Health, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC-DASH). Gratitude is extended to the individuals listed below for their contribution toward developing and producing this report. (Individuals who served on the NM-YRRS 2011 Steering Committee are identified by an asterisk (*).)

Participation in Guadalupe County

The response rate for Guadalupe County was 89%.

A high response rate produces survey results that are more representative of the student population. A response rate of at least 60% allows generalization of results to the entire student body. A response rate of 70% is excellent and allows a high degree of confidence in results. Because a high response rate means that more students have been surveyed, a high response rate will also be reflected in the error bars (i.e., with a higher response rate and more students included in the survey, error bars will be smaller and confidence intervals will be narrower). Response rates below 60% are considered low, and caution should be exercised in interpreting results. Low response rates indicate that the data may represent only students who participated in the survey and not necessarily the entire student body.

Totals may add up to more or less than 100%, because
1. For race/ethnicity, respondents were allowed to choose multiple responses.
2. Data may be missing for some demographic measures if respondents chose not to answer certain questions.

Highlights from the New Mexico Youth Risk and Resiliency Survey (YRRS)
Grades 6-8, 2011
Guadalupe County

Results from the 2011 NM Youth Risk and Resiliency Survey mark the second survey year of high quality middle school YRRS data at the state level. This report examines 2011 YRRS results for Guadalupe County, and compares them to 2009 results and to state level 2011 results. Please use these results to help make New Mexico and your own community a safer and healthier place for all of our young people. For comprehensive YRRS results, see this website:

Mental Health

Suicide is the second leading cause of death among adolescents in New Mexico. Past suicide attempts are highly associated with completed suicides.

Mental Health Indicators
NM & Guadalupe County
Grades 6-8, 2011

- Ever seriously thought about killing self
  - NM: 19.8%
  - Guadalupe County: 22.0%

- Ever planned to kill self
  - NM: 11.3%
  - Guadalupe County: 12.0%

- Ever tried to kill self
  - NM: 7.0%
  - Guadalupe County: 8.7%

* Statistically significant difference
Tobacco Use

Cigarette smoking and other tobacco use can cause cancer, respiratory illnesses, and other conditions related to the leading causes of death for New Mexicans of all ages. The YRRS does not differentiate between ceremonial and non-ceremonial tobacco use.

Current cigarette smoking
NM: 6.8%
Guadalupe County: 7.6%

Current cigar smoking
NM: 5.8%
Guadalupe County: 7.8%

Current spit tobacco use
NM: 3.7%
Guadalupe County: 5.7%

* Statistically significant difference
Alcohol Use

Alcohol use by young people is associated with injuries such as motor vehicle crashes, the leading cause of death among adolescents. Alcohol use at an early age is also associated with an increased risk of chronic liver disease and alcohol dependence later in life.

Alcohol Use in the Past 30 Days
NM & Guadalupe County
Grades 6-8, 2011

* Statistically significant difference
Drug Use

Drug use by adolescents is associated with accidental injury and death. Injection drug use is associated with infectious diseases such as HIV and Hepatitis B and C.

Drug Use

NM & Guadalupe County
Grades 6-8, 2011

* Statistically significant difference
Early and unsafe sexual activity puts teens at risk of unplanned pregnancy and sexually transmitted infections.

Statistically significant difference
Physical Activity

Lack of physical activity puts young people at risk of becoming overweight or obese. Obesity and overweight place teens at risk of many chronic diseases that can cause death or disability.

About this Report
Appendix B: About this Report

This report contains county level results from the 2011 New Mexico Middle School Youth Risk and Resiliency Survey (YRRS). The YRRS is a statewide survey of public school students in middle schools and high schools throughout New Mexico. Statewide and county level results are available at www.YouthRisk.org, and www.health.state.nm.us/ERD/HealthData/yrss.shtml.

Together, these documents comprise a useful tool for those working on youth-related issues at the state and local level.

The YRRS is organized into two major content areas: risk behaviors and protective (resiliency) factors. Risk behaviors include behaviors associated with unintentional injury, violence, mental health, tobacco use, alcohol use, drug use, sexual activity, physical activity, and nutrition. Protective or resiliency factors are measures of the positive and supportive relationships, experiences, activities, resources and values that encourage healthy youth development. Resiliency factors and related traits include caring and supportive relationships in the family, school, community and with peers; boundaries set by the family and school; positive peer support; meaningful participation and constructive use of time in school and outside of school.

Using the Report

The main section of this report consists of a module of results for each main topic area of the YRRS. The risk behavior modules each start with a set of line charts illustrating change in behavior over the years of the survey (for counties that only have one recent year of data, the line charts are omitted). The line charts are followed by one or more set of three bar charts. The first bar chart in each set compares the county prevalence of a group of behaviors to the NM prevalence for the same behaviors; the second compares the county prevalence for girls to that of boys for the same behaviors, and the third compares the county prevalence for each grade level.

Following the section on distinct risk and resiliency factors is a section that illustrates the relationship between risk behaviors and protective factors. This section consists of a set of bar charts, each showing the prevalence of a particular risk behavior for students with varying levels of selected protective factors.

In some cases with very few students in a particular age or gender group, data have been suppressed to protect the anonymity of the individual respondents. Suppressed data are marked with "--". In cases where there are fewer than 25 respondents per grade level or gender, grade level or gender charts have been omitted.

NOTE: County level YRRS reports are freely available. School district reports have been distributed to school district offices. School districts are encouraged to reproduce and share these reports with community groups concerned with prevention and health promotion. However, school district level results will not be released without express permission of the school district superintendent. Forms for requesting school district data are available at www.YouthRisk.org.
Understanding the Charts - and A Word about Error Bars

The bar charts in this report present the percentage of students who reported engaging in any given risk behavior or who reported having any given protective factor. The height of the bars conveys the percentage of students reporting each trait, and provides a quick visual comparison between different groups of students reporting that trait. A label for each bar presents the actual percentage of students who reported each trait. For instance, the chart on page 24, Unintentional Injury, shows that 7.5% of students in New Mexico rarely or never wore seatbelts, while 5.6% of students in Guadalupe County rarely or never wore seatbelts.

Because of the high cost and logistical complications involved in conducting a statewide survey, the YRRS was administered to a sample of students, rather than to every single student in each school district. Because YRRS data are from a sample of students, and not the entire student body, the results in this report are estimates. As with all estimates, there is some uncertainty associated with each of these results. On the charts in this report, this degree of uncertainty is represented by an error bar (or confidence interval). The error bar is the thin ‘I’ shaped line that extends above and below the end of each bar in a chart. One of the major influences on the size of the confidence interval or error bar is the number of participants in the survey. In general, this means that with more students participating in the survey, there will be a higher degree of confidence in the results (i.e., error bars will be smaller).

The proper interpretation of an error bar can be illustrated by looking at the chart below. This chart compares the high school prevalence of smoking and cocaine use for New Mexico to the United States prevalence for 2011. The chart shows that the prevalence of current smoking was 19.9% in New Mexico and 18.1% in the United States. The error bar for the estimate of current smoking among New Mexico students extends approximately 2 percentage points in either direction, from 17.6% to 22.4%. This means that we are confident that the actual percentage of smokers in this group of students was between 17.6% and 22.4%. The error bar for the estimate of current smoking in the US extends approximately 1.5 percentage points in either direction, from 16.7% to 19.5%. We are confident that the actual percentage of smokers among this group was between 16.7% and 19.5%.
How does knowing the upper and lower limits of our error bars help us? While it appears at first glance that New Mexico has a higher prevalence of smoking than the United States (19.9% vs. 18.1%), a closer look at the error bars shows a more complicated picture. The error bars for the New Mexico estimate (17.6%-22.4%) and the US estimate (16.7%-19.5%) overlap. Because of this overlap, we do not have a high degree of confidence that the prevalence of smoking in New Mexico is actually different from the prevalence in the United States. In other words, the difference between the prevalence of smoking in New Mexico and the United States is not statistically significant.

For cocaine use it also appears that New Mexico had a higher prevalence than the United States (5.2% vs. 3.0%). The error bar for New Mexico extends from 4.3% to 6.2%, and the error bar for the United States extends from 2.6% to 3.5%. Because the higher bound of the US error bar (3.5%) is lower than the lower bound of the NM error bar (4.3%), these error bars do not overlap. For cocaine use, we are confident in saying that the New Mexico prevalence was higher than the US prevalence. In other words, the difference between the prevalence of cocaine use in New Mexico and the United States was a statistically significant difference.

For some small school districts, error bars have been removed from this report. With small populations, the number of students sampled can approach the total student population. In these cases, error bars would have limited meaning because with a high percentage of students surveyed, there is less uncertainty around the estimates than error bars suggest.
Risk Behavior and Resiliency/Protective Factor Definitions

Unintentional Injury
- Rarely or never wore a bike helmet
  - Of those who rode a bicycle, answered 'Never' or 'Rarely' to the question, When you ride
- Rarely or never wore a seatbelt
