Safety
Keep cannabis, and all other medications, away from children and pets.
It is important that you buy your medical cannabis from a licensed dispensary in New Mexico. Dispensaries are required to test cannabis products. Transport and store your medical cannabis in the original dispensary packages. Keep your cannabis secure. Consume medical cannabis products someplace you feel safe and where you will not have to drive.
If you use a courier to deliver your medical cannabis, ask for their ID and have your patient ID card ready to show them.
New Mexico residents under 21 cannot purchase cannabis unless they are medical patients.

Important Reminders
You may find all laws and regulations for the Medical Cannabis Program at www.nmhealth.org/go/mcp. Listed below are some quick "Do's and Don'ts".

Welcome to the Medical Cannabis Program

Please check your patient ID card to make sure it is correct. If there are any mistakes, contact the office immediately at 505-827-2321.

Your card's expiration date is in the lower, right-hand corner. There are also two annual verification dates. Your card remains active until the expiration date as long as you submit an application by the annual verification date. You are required to submit an application every year to keep your card active.

If you move to a different mailing address, or if your patient card is lost or stolen, fill out and send in an "Information Change/Card Replacement Form." Your original card will be deactivated.

Patients who need extra help can select a Primary Caregiver. Your Primary Caregiver will need to get a national background check, then fill out a "Primary Caregiver Application" and get it signed by your doctor.

The patient application and card replacement form are available on the Medical Cannabis Program website: https://www.nmhealth.org/about/mcp/svcs/

Patients can now submit applications electronically through the Medical Cannabis Program's online portal. Patients will need to create an account and then will be able to complete and submit applications electronically. The online portal also provides patients with access to available units and a 90-day sales report. The online portal website is: https://mcp-patient-tracking.nmhealth.org/

How Much/When Can I Buy?

Patients in the program can buy up to 230 units of cannabis and/or cannabis products over a rolling three-month period (or 90 days). Patients can buy dried flower and many other products like edibles, tinctures, and topicals.

What is a "Unit"?

For dried flower, 1 unit equals 1 gram. 230 units is about 8 ounces of dried flower product.

For edibles, tinctures, and topicals, 1 unit is 200 milligrams (or 0.2 grams) of THC.

What is a "Rolling Three-Month Period"?

The total cannabis units you can buy is 230 over the course of 90 days. It can include different items. For example, in a 90-day period, you might buy 80 units of dried flower, 75 units of tinctures, 40 units of chocolate bars and still have 35 units left. Your units are tracked every time you buy products from a dispensary. Units that you buy today will fall off your total unit count after 90 days.

How do I know what works for me?

There are many types of products on the market with different uses and effects. The best way to keep track of what is working or not working for you is to write it down. If you try something that doesn't feel right for you, stop using it. Write it down in your tracker then talk to your medical provider and the dispensary.

It's a good idea to track all the products you use over at least a one-month period and take it with you to your next medical appointment. This will allow you to talk to your medical provider about how specific products are working for you.
